VOL. XLIX., No. 3. NEW YORK, January 18, 1896. WHOLE No. 1251

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS

Movement.

By E. J. MAREY, Member of the Institute and of the Academy of Medicine; Professor of the College of France; author of "Animal Mechanism." Translated by Eric Pritchard, M.A. With 200 illustrations. Vol. 73, International Scientific Series. 12mo. Cloth, $1.75.

The present work describes the methods employed in the extended development of photography of moving objects attained in the last few years, and shows the importance of such researches in mechanics and other departments of physics, the fine arts, physiology and zoölogy, and in regulating the walking or marching of men and the gait of horses.

The Sun.

By C. A. YOUNG, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of Astronomy in Princeton University. New and revised edition, with numerous illustrations. Volume 34, International Scientific Series. 12mo. Cloth, $2.00.

Since the original publication of this book, in 1881, great advances have been made in our knowledge of the sun; and although, in subsequent editions, notes and appendices have kept the work fairly up to date, the author has deemed it best to thoroughly revise it, embodying the notes in the text, and rewriting certain portions. This edition is therefore representative of the solar science of to-day, including important spectroscopic discoveries which have been made during the revision.

Successors to the Title.

By Mrs. L. B. WALFORD, author of "Baby's Grandmother," etc. No. 184, Town and Country Library. 12mo. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Readers of the best contemporary fiction know how to appreciate this popular author's lightness of touch and unfailing humor.

Stonepastures.

By ELEANOR STUART. 16mo. Cloth, 75 cents.

This graphic picture of quaint characters belongs to the class of specialized American fiction which has been headed by the work of Miss Wilkins, Mr. Cable, Colonel Johnston, Mr. Garland, and others. The author has studied the peculiar and almost unknown life of the laborers in a Pennsylvania mining and manufacturing town with a keenness of observation and an abundant sense of humor which will give her book a permanent place among the genre studies of American life.

The Songs and Music of Froebel's Mother Play.

Prepared and arranged by SUSAN E. BLOW. Fully illustrated. Vol. 32, International Education Series. 12mo. Cloth, $1.50.

This is the second and concluding volume of Miss Blow's version of Froebel's noted work which laid the foundation for that important branch of early education, the kindergarten. The first volume, "The Mottoes and Commentaries," may be designated as the Teacher's or Mother's book, and "The Songs and Music," the present volume, as the Children's book. In the latter, many of the pictures have been enlarged in parts to bring out the details more distinctly. New translations are made of the songs, eliminating the crudities of poetic composition that have appeared in the literal imitations of Froebel, and new music is substituted where the orginal has been discarded.

Appletons' Hand-Book of Winter Resorts.

For Tourists and Invalids. New edition, December, 1895, revised to date. With Maps, Illustrations, Table of Railroad Fares, etc. 12mo. Paper cover, 50 cents.

This standard manual gives complete information as to winter sanitariums and places of resort in the United States, the West Indies, the Bermudas, the Sandwich Islands, and Mexico.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. Y. CROWELL & CO. have nearly ready two important volumes, which will be included in their Library of Economics and Politics, viz.: "State Railroad Control, with a history of its development in Iowa," by Dr. Frank H. Dixon, with an introduction by Prof. Henry C. Adams, of the University of Michigan; also, "Southern Side-Lights," a picture of social and economic life in the South during a generation before the war, by Edward Ingle, of Washington, D. C.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will publish on the 20th inst. a new edition of Renan's "Life of Jesus," for which the translation has been newly revised from the 23d and final edition; "Dante Gabriel Rossetti—his family letters," with a memoir by William Michael Rossetti, in two volumes, with ten portraits by D. G. Rossetti of himself and other members of his family; "The Entail, or, the Lairds of Grippy," by John Galt; "Cavalry in the Waterloo Campaign," by Lieutenant-General Sir Evelyn Wood, which forms the third volume in the Pall Mall Magazine Library; and "The Religion of Hope," by Philip S. Moxom, author of "The Aim of Life."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. have just ready in their Riverside Paper Series Mrs. Deland's novel, "Philip and His Wife." With this volume the series appears in an entirely new and attractive cover, the paper of which is a very tasteful and agreeable yellow, and the lettering is distinct and artistically simple. They announce that the third large edition of Browning's complete works will be ready at once. The demand for this remarkable work exhausted two editions very quickly; then the necessity of procuring from England a supply of the special paper on which this book is printed, and the great care required to bring out an edition in perfect form, prevented the appearance of the third edition in time for the large holiday demand.

MACMILLAN & CO. will publish shortly "The Economic History of Virginia in the Seventeenth Century," by Philip A. Bruce, corresponding secretary of the Virginia Historical Society and editor of the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography; the first part of a "Handbook of Greek Sculpture," by Ernest Gardner, formerly director of the British School at Athens, which will form the first of a series of Handbooks of Archæology and Antiquities; and a work on "Experimental Morphology," by Charles B. Davenport, Instructor in Zoölogy at Harvard, which is intended to serve as an introduction and guide to the study and development of the individual regarded as a complex of processes rather than a mere succession of different forms.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 25th Eugene Field's last volume, "The Love-Affairs of a Bibliomaniac," with an introduction by Roswell Martin Field which contains some interesting facts regarding the poet's last days. We have the highest authority for saying that the book is largely autobiographic, many of the passages being pages out of the author's personal experiences. The narrative is in the form of an autobiography, supposedly by one whose adventures and observations during a lifetime devoted to the pursuit of rare books are set forth with a delightful play of fancy and a flow of genial humor very characteristic of the author. A uniform subscription edition of the works of the late Eugene Field, in prose and verse, will be at once undertaken by the Messrs. Scribner in a truly elegant manner, even to such a refinement as using a "superior deckle-edged paper, containing in a water-mark Mr. Field's initials on every page." Each of the ten volumes will have a photogravure frontispiece on Japan paper. One hundred numbered sets will be printed on Japan paper.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Andersen, Hans. The nightingale: being a story for children and a parable for men and women; tr. by H. W. Dulcken, and il. by May J. Newill. Bost., Berkeley Updike, [The Merrymount Press,] 1896. c. '95. 4+17 p. sq. O. pap., $1.25. [83

Bain, R. Nisbet. Charles XII. and the collapse of the Swedish Empire, 1682–1719. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1895. c. 18+320 p. pors. il. maps, D. (Heroes of the nations ser., no. 15.) cl., $1.50; hf. mor., $1.75. [84

"The present work has no pretension to be anything like an exhaustive biography of Charles XII.—a perfectly adequate treatment of so large and complex a subject would demand many volumes. But it does claim to at least suggest the lines on which such a biography should be written, it professes to present the leading facts of the heroic monarch's career in the light of the latest investigations, and it endeavors to dissipate the many erroneous notions concerning the "Lion of the North" for which Voltaire's Histoire de Charles XII. is mainly responsible."—Preface.

Beman, Wooster Woodruff, and Smith, D: Eugene. Plane and solid geometry. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1895. c. 9+320 p. D. hf. leath., $1.35. [85

The present work covers the elements of plane and solid geometry as offered in the best American high schools; it does not contain any discussion of conics, nor does it introduce the distinctive features of modern geometry. It does aim, however, to invest the ancient geometry with something of the spirit of modern mathematics.

Brown, Anna Robeson. The black lamb. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1896. c. '95. 2–322 p. D. cl., $1.25. [86

Although the hero of this melodramatic story is Nöél Conway, a young mystic, inheriting Buddhistic tendencies, "The black lamb" is Andrew Le Breton, alias Musgrave, a clever English adventurer, who is a party to a scheme to sink an ocean steamer and thus gain a part of her insurance money. The interest is divided in the outcome of this almost impossible plot, and the self-sacrificing action of Nöél Conway. The scenes are in New York and London.

of automatic war. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1895. 93 p. D. pap., 40 c. [97

The author through a naval story illustrates his views about fighting with automatic guns; he takes the old English Centurion and refits her according to his plan, and tests her in battles with other ships. The plan is not a visionary one, but is offered for the serious consideration of naval architects.

Euripides. The Heracleidæ; with introd., analysis, critical and explanatory notes by E: Anthony Beck and Clinton E. S. Headlam. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1896. 127 p. 16°, cl., net, 50 c. [98

McLaughlin, M. Louise. The second Madame: a memoir of Elizabeth Charlotte, Duchesse d'Orleans. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, [1895.] c. 4+172 p. D. cl., $1.25. [124

"The second Madame" was the daughter of Charles, the Elector Palatine, and was brought to France in 1671, to become the second wife of Philippe Duc d'Orleans, or, Monsieur as he was called—the brother of Louis XIV. Madame had a long and romantic career at the French court, and was often very unhappy; she was a voluminous correspondent, and it is from her letters, covering a period of over fifty years, and describing the most minute incidents of her life, that this little book is made up.

It cost the writer really $225 to travel around the world—$60 of this he had with him when he started, the rest he earned on the way; he travelled in the humblest manner and endured many privations, but he saw the world; his journey occupied a year and six days. His observations about the poor of great cities are quite interesting.

This novel relates to the experience of a young couple after their married life has begun. Allan Fawcett is a young man, of an easily recognized type, who marries when just beginning to make his way in the world; his pretty wife Mabel has ideas of her own as to how a husband should be managed, and the manner in which they work out their several theories forms the basis of the tale.

"It is needless to say that Schoenhof has no confidence in the scheme of regulating prices by artificial changes in the volume of currency. His book is, in fact, a demonstration that prices are the result of very complex causes, in which the amount of currency has only a subordinate part, and that arbitrary interference with the currency must be mischievous and mischievous only. This he illustrates with a wealth of material, thoroughly verified and carefully analyzed."—New York Times.

PICK-UPS.

A FEATHER IN HIS CAP.—A good story is making the rounds of the press of a commercial traveller who started on his maiden trip from New York with a large line of new holiday publications, and with every confidence in his own ability as a salesman, and who was sure of many and large orders. He landed at Cincinnati at the end of the first week without a single order; he would have taken some, but so many unlooked-for things had occurred. Buyers were away from home, partner was sick, some had bought, others must take time to see what was on hand, etc. However, at Cincinnati all was made up; a fine order was taken from Stars & Diamonds, a new customer added also. So the order was sent in, with a long letter showing the exuberant spirit of our young friend and the new energy it had inspired in him. Said he: "Please note that in S. & D. I have secured a new customer as well as the largest order of the season; put a feather in my cap." Two weeks later, after having drawn two large drafts for expense money, and having a continued repetition of the first week's experiences of no orders, a box was received by express. Careful examination disclosed nothing but feathers, and as it was plainly marked from his firm, he hurried down to the Palmer House office to see if there was not a letter explaining what in the world they had intended to send him. The letter read: "Dear Mr. ———: We send you by express a box of feathers; take them and fly home. Stars & Diamonds have failed."

WE have heard of the lady who, in returning galley proofs of her book, remarked to the publisher that it was all right, but she didn't like "the pages quite so long," nor did she want the "book printed on one side of the page only." She must have been the twin sister of the bookseller who, in re a copy of an uncut book, wrote the following to a publisher: "I have received the books you sent. One of them is not bound properly. Two of the edges (side and bottom) are left rough and uncut, while the other edge of the leaves (top) is cut and gilded. Shall I take it at half price or return it?" W. B.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 18, 1896.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's ssue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A TRICK OF THE BOOK-MAKER.

THE expert who during the past few years has kept track of and examined carefully the "Fine Art Juvenile Gift-Books," as they are styled in certain publishers' advertisements, which are put forth each holiday season in ever-increasing quantities and at ever-decreasing prices, may perhaps have been struck with a feature characterizing many of them which it is possible has hitherto escaped the eye of the general public.

The feature to which we refer has year by year been more audaciously employed, and it may be interesting at this moment, while last year's gift-books are fresh in the recollection of most of our readers, to examine it a little more closely. We allude to the frequent services which the same original designs are made to perform year after year in different books. The practice is, of course, well known in connection with books illustrated by wood-engravings and process blocks, and there can be little or no attempt in these to disguise the artifices of the wily book-builder. But the resources at his command when dealing with the illustrations in his color-books enable him to practice deeper deceptions and to "cover up his tracks" in many ways unsuspected by the public.

When during the early seventies the old-fashioned, garish, crude, and inartistic colored toy-book gave way to the sweet influences of Caldecott and Crane, these two masters of juvenile book illustration held their own against all comers—their picture-books were unique, and by many are considered to have touched the high-water mark of excellence. But it was the publication in 1879 of Kate Greenaway's "Under the Window" that opened the flood-gates for the torrents of color-books which have been annually poured forth ever since. These early successes have been imitated and plagiarized in every possibly way, and when the force of plagiarism could no further go, the enterprising and inventive manufacturers set to work to plagiarize themselves in the manner we shall indicate.

And to make ourselves clear we must premise that the books in question are chiefly produced by lithography. Enormous sums of money have been paid to prominent English artists for original paintings, and have been expended in putting their work upon the stone in Germany, for it is the Germans chiefly who supply the markets of the world with these productions. Lithography, as every school-boy ought to know, is printing from stones instead of from type; a peculiar limestone found chiefly in certain parts of Silesia, slatey, compact, and finely grained, is prepared and on it is traced with a fine pen with prepared ink, or with chalk, the copy of the drawing which is to be printed. For every separate color a separate stone containing only that part of the picture to be printed in that particular color must be prepared, and by the successive printing of these different stones and the superposition of some of them, the beautiful effects with which we are all so familiar are produced, many of the plates going through the presses from fourteen to eighteen times in order to attain the desired result.

Now in the operations of lithography there is a process known as the making of transfers, into the details of which it is needless to go. Suffice it to say that these transfers can be made upon elastic gelatine, and by means of an instrument known as a "pantograph" a picture of any size transferred on to stretched-out gelatine may, when the tension is released, be transferred to the stone in the smaller size that the gelatine resumes. Parts of pictures can also be transferred in the same way, and by the stretching process be made larger or smaller, as desired. By this simple and ingenious means the original stones are made to do duty wholly or in part over and over again.

Another method is to reproduce pictures or parts of pictures in fewer colors and varying the tints originally employed, the same stones serving, of course, to make many different combinations and varying effects, and these changes naturally produce results which appear to the uninitiated as new and original pictures.

It is to these and other artifices of the German lithographer that we owe our yearly recognitions of the illustrations which were first put upon the stone eight and ten years ago. But this is not all. He has discovered that excellent pictures may be made by half-tone and "process" from his colored originals, and from parts of them, and we are therefore constantly meeting to-day in the severer simplicity of black and white the pretty children and their pet animals that we knew in color in years gone by.

We are not concerned here to defend or blame these practices; that is a matter for the conscience of the publisher or the endurance and short-lived memory of the public. We have given this brief explanation of a peculiarity of a large proportion of the modern colored picture-books; a peculiarity which may, perhaps, be so recklessly introduced as in the end to defeat its own object.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade was held at the rooms of the board on the 7th inst., President Charles T. Dillingham in the chair. There were present in person and by proxy upward of sixty firms.

After the usual preliminaries President Dillingham addressed the board as follows:

"GENTLEMEN: I am gratified that at this the nineteenth annual meeting of the board I can state that, although the office force of the association has accomplished a vast amount of labor during the past year with the most satisfactory results, our members have not been interested in as many failures as in the previous year.

"The business outlook during the spring and summer of the past year was very encouraging, but I regret to say that re-orders were not taken during the fall to an extent that would justify me in stating that 1895 had been a good business year.

"Owing to financial and political disturbances confidence was not restored, and we must look to 1896 for the prosperity that we hoped for in 1895.

"The reports of the treasurer and the executive committee, showing the details of the work of the office, will be presented and you will note the increase in the expense of obtaining information. This increase is found necessary owing to the growing demands of our members for prompt and reliable reports. The bureau of information contains a very great number of reports, but they must be constantly revised and kept up to date.

"The efficiency of this bureau and of the collection department is such that it is no longer necessary for our members to use other mercantile agencies, or to give claims to their lawyers for collection, a notice from our office generally accomplishing the object without further expense, and I again ask the members to put all of their claims in this their own collection agency, as it lessens the expense to them and assists in paying the expenses of the office, thus rendering an increase of annual dues unnecessary.

"The arbitration committee has not acted during the year, but I trust that our members will not lose sight of this method of obtaining a fair and equitable settlement of business disagreements free of legal expenses.

"Our membership has increased six during the past year. It was 171 on Jan. 1, 1895. Seventeen have joined and eleven have withdrawn, seven of whom went out of business.

"In entering the new year I hope that a renewal of general business prosperity will spring up, and that at our next annual meeting your president can congratulate you on its realization.

"I desire to express my thanks to the officers, members, and employees for their uniform support and encouragement during the two years in which I have had the honor to be your president. It has been a very pleasant experience, and one which I appreciate and shall always remember with pleasure."

Andrew J. C. Foye, treasurer, then read his report for the year. It was as follows:

The report was accepted.

The report of the executive committee was read by Chairman Bainbridge. It was as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Stationers' Board of Trade:

Your executive committee submits the following report for the year ending December 31, 1895.

The names in this department on our records up to January 1, 1896, number 54,309. At the present time we have revised reports of the standing and credit of 37,251 dealers; of which 3297 are reports of the new firms added during the year 1895, and the balance revised reports of firms previously on our records.

From January 2 to December 31, 1895, we furnished to our members 27,309 reports. In 1894 we furnished our members with 24,307 mercantile reports.

Information (reports) applied for.

	1894.	1895.
Inquiries of correspondents and agencies	13,821	12,985
Inquiries of dealers for statements	5,529	5,696

Information (reports) received.

	1894.	1895.
Reports for correspondents and agencies	9,738	9,726
Statements received	3,662	3,222

In 1894 we sent to our members 6252 inquiries for information, and in 1895 we sent out 6943 slips.

During the year 1895 866 letters were written in this department. Eight thousand six hundred and forty weekly circulars were furnished members during the year 1895. This department was used by 171 members in 1895. During the year 1895 we mailed 1643 "second notices," against 724 in 1894.

In the collection department there were received during the year 4038 claims for collection, aggregating the sum of $178,946.15. Of this sum collections to the amount of $65,372.10 passed through the office. Of the claims received during 1895 and on our books from previous years,

2619 were sent to attorney,
397 closed through office,
890 closed through attorneys,
861 settled direct with creditors,
553 returned uncollectible,
205 transferred to failure and assignment department.
49 put in judgment, making a total of 3574 claims disposed of and leaving 3157 in process of settlement.

There were 29,953 letters written and 16,153 letters received.

In the failure and assignment department through the year there were received 366 cases, consisting of 1166 claims, aggregating $156,212.73. On January 1, 1895, there were 591 cases unsettled, which, with 336 received during the year, makes a total of 927 cases. Of these 16 cases were closed by payment in full, 76 cases were closed by assignee, 3 cases were closed by extension, 22 cases were settled direct with creditors, 68 cases were settled by compromise, 164 cases were closed as worthless.

Eighty-four claims put in judgment, representing fourteen cases, making a total of 363 disposed of, and leaving in process of adjustment 594 cases. There has been paid to creditors in this department $43,234.71 exclusive of amounts paid direct. There were 10,916 letters written, 7130 letters received, and 6856 circulars issued to creditors. In addition to those mentioned there were 480 general letters received and 715 general letters written.

There has been received and disbursed both by the collection and failure and assignment departments the sum of $108,607.41. The books and accounts have been audited monthly and found correct.

In this department the want of a bankruptcy law is still felt, and your committee hopes that before long there will be a speedy adoption by Congress of some bill which shall satisfactorily meet the wants of merchants.

We closed the year with a balance in the treasurer's hands of $105.52 and interest due us from the savings bank of $65; also dues uncollected $165.

The report was adopted.

Charles A. Appleton and Robert Gair were elected inspectors of election for the ensuing year, and as neither Mr. H. W. Southworth nor M. Vernon, the inspectors for this meeting, was present, the president appointed the newly elected inspectors to act in their stead.

The election for trustees resulted in the choice of the following named gentlemen: James C. Aikin, Chas. Watson Allen, C. A. Appleton, Henry C. Bainbridge, George C. Boorum, Charles F. Chichester, C. T. Dillingham, James L. Drummond, Patrick Farrelly, Andrew J. C. Foye, Robert Gair, E. I. Horsman, C. S. Kiggins, Charles McLoughlin, E. C. Rogers, Emil Strobel, Frank Squier, and Frank W. Wood.

At the meeting of the trustees on the 14th inst. the officers of the previous year were unanimously re-elected. The committees also remain the same, excepting that Messrs. Frank Squier and Jos. L. Drummond were added to the Abitration Committee. Rounds & Dillingham succeed James L. Bishop as attorneys for the Board.

INATTENTION.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the Canada Bookseller writes that he "went into a large book-store not long ago to choose a book. The man in charge (not the proprietor) was showing a lady customer some dictionaries. Or, rather, he was gazing pensively across the store, his thoughts probably miles away, while the lady turned the books over slowly. No doubt the man was tired. The lady was a bit tiresome, and the hour was 5 P.M. There were several people in the store, and the staff were all busy." The Canada Bookseller man chose his book unaided, and then tried to catch the salesman's eye. But it was still fixed dreamily on the opposite wall. So he selected the volume and handed it over the counter to be tied up. "The salesman woke from his reverie, passed the book to a small boy to be wrapped in paper, and turned—to find that the lady had slipped out. She hadn't bought, and neither would the writer if the matter had been left to the man in charge. The incident just shows how inattention can spoil business. It is one thing to bother a customer when he simply drops in to have a look round; and another to lose him by neglect."

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association was held on the 7th inst. The following applied for membership and were elected members of the Association: Messrs. Wm. B. Hadley, Wm. T. G. Weymouth, Edward O'Malley, Ed. Ackerman, Frank Appell, Adolph Behrman, Gus A. Petri, William W. Norman, John T. Mahon, and Miss Carrie Ella D'Oench, all of New York City.

The Association, we are pleased to hear, is holding its own. During the past two years, when older and better endowed co-operative insurance societies were either crippled or crowded out of existence altogether, the Association, through the careful and economic administration of its officers, held together and met its obligations not only promptly and in full, but time and again, to meet urgent cases, it paid death claims before the time allowed by law. Those not familiar with the workings of the Association can obtain application blanks, with full particulars, by addressing Wilbur B. Ketcham, Secretary, 2 Cooper Union, New York City.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR THE COPYRIGHTING OF A SUPPRESSED BOOK.

REPRESENTATIVE DALZELL has introduced a curious bill in the House. It has for its object the copyrighting of a book published in 1777, of which there are now said to be in existence but three copies. One of them, the only one in this country, James Owens, of Pittsburg, possesses, and he wishes to have the protection of the copyright law extended to it for purposes of republication. The book is Russell's "History of England," which at the time of its original publication was suppressed by the British Government because of the space which it devoted to scandals in the royal family and among the nobility.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PAUL VERLAINE, the French poet, died in Paris on the 8th inst. He was born in Metz in 1844 and published his first volume of verse—"Poèmes Saturniens"—in 1866. Since that time he printed thirteen volumes of poetry, six volumes of prose, a one-act comedy in metre, and had in preparation at the time of his death three additional volumes of poetry—"Invectives," "Dédicaces," and "Dans les Limbes." He was the author of 'Fêtes Galantes," "Romances sans Paroles," "Jadis et Naguère," and "Sagesse."

WALTER CLARK NICHOLS, a promising young journalist who was commissioned by Harper & Brothers to write up the Cripple Creek mines, died under suspicious circumstances in Denver, Colo., on the 11th inst. Mr. Nichols was the son of Walter Clark Nichols, of Buffalo, and was about twenty-four years old. He took a position on the staff of the New York Evening Post in 1893, but went almost immediately to Harpers'. His work in the Round Table department first brought him into prominence, but his best work was his short stories printed in Harper's Weekly and Harper's Magazine.

ANTON PHILIPP RECLAM, the well-known Leipzig publisher and bookseller, died in his native city on the 7th inst. He was born in 1807. In 1827 he established a circulating library and "literary museum." Ten years later he started a publishing business which increased in extent after 1839, when he became proprietor of the Haack printing office. In 1867 he began the publication of the Universal Bibliothek, in which he printed the best texts of ancient and modern German literature as well as translations of standard foreign authors, his texts being in several cases the only authoritative ones in existence. The volumes of the library were 32° in size and retailed at ten cents a volume in paper covers.

RICHARD J. OLIPHANT, one of the best-known booksellers and printers in northwestern New York, died in his native city, Oswego, on the 13th inst. He was born August 10, 1838, his father being then the publisher of the Oswego Free Press, which afterward became the Oswego County Whig, and then the Daily Times. In 1861 Mr. Oliphant, in partnership with his brother John, bought the extensive printing establishment of his father, of which after the death of his brother he became sole owner. Mr. Oliphant besides administering his large printing, lithographing, and bookbinding establishments, and book and stationery store, was also active in the affairs of the Oswego Machine Works, the Oswego City Savings Bank, and of the Oswego City Railway Company. His widow, two sons, and a daughter survive him.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Musician is the title of a new monthly devoted to the educational interests of music, with especial reference to the piano, voice, and organ, the first number of which has just been published by the Hatch Music Co., Eighth and Locust Streets, Philadelphia. A. L. Manchester is the editor.

The Critic was born on January 15, 1881. Its fifteenth birthday will be celebrated to-day (January 18) by the publication of an anniversary number, containing a bird's-eye review of the literary movement as it has manifested itself in America during the past fifteen years, and other interesting features. We congratulate our contemporary on its anniversary and wish it prolonged life and the prosperity which its good work deserves.

GEORGE JACOB HOLYOAKE, the founder of secularism, now resides in Brighton, England. He has nearly completed a book on secularism, which will maintain that where free thought ends secularism begins. Mr. Holyoake has another work nearly finished "The War-Path of Opinion." This will vindicate him against the representations he alleges to be erroneous in Mrs. Bonner's "Life of Mr. Bradlaugh" and in Mr. Linton's "Memories." T. Fisher Unwin, the London publisher, recently issued a new and enlarged edition of Mr. Holyoake's "Public Speaking and Debate," originally published more than forty years ago.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BELTON, TEX.—Cal Montgomery, dealer in books and stationery, has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, to L. K. Tarver, assignee. Assets not stated; liabilities about $5000.

BESSEMER, ALA.—S. R. Baines has opened a book and stationery store here.

CHICAGO, ILL.—George Barker, the old-book dealer, of 171 Madison Street, has been forced to confess judgment to the amount of $605.93. It is said that as soon as his affairs can be straightened out he will resume business. Mr. Barker is about forty years of age and has spent twenty-five years of that time in the business of dealing in old books. He was first associated with Gil Baldwin, the original old-book dealer of Chicago, in his business at 170 Madison Street, and spent five years with him, after which he went into business for himself at 171 Madison Street, where he has been since that time. In his business he made a specialty of old theological books, and half of the stock carried by him was of that nature. Mr. Barker did not touch trade in new books and adhered strictly to the trade in old volumes until a few months ago, when he undertook to publish a novel. This proved disastrous. It is thought to have been the cause of the failure to meet his obligations. The failure of Barker leaves the field of old-book dealing to five men, of whom F. W. Morris, who has been in the trade at 169 Madison Street for the past eleven years, is the longest in steady service. The others are: H. D. Chapin, 125 La Salle Street, who probably started earlier than any other dealer in old books in Chicago but who lost precedence by a break in the continuity of his connection with the book trade; Harry Falkenau, 101 Madison Street; John Stern, 26 Adams Street, and John Ferguson, at the corner of Madison Street and Ashland Avenue.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA.—Murray & Smith, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

HUNTSVILLE, TEX.—W. H. Woodall, bookseller, has sold out to J. T. Johnson & Co.

MARTINSBURG, W. VA.—Rev. Wm. Gerhardt will soon open a book-store here.

NEW YORK CITY.—Application has been made to the Supreme Court for the voluntary dissolution of the New York corporation of George Routledge's Sons, publishers. The company was incorporated in this city in July, 1894, with a capital stock of $240,000, succeeding to the New York business of George Routledge & Sons, of London. The application is merely for the purpose of legally winding up the company, the project of conducting the business here as a domestic corporation having been abandoned on the 1st of April, 1895, and the entire business sold to Geo. Routledge & Sons, of London, who continue the business here as a branch of the London house at 27 and 29 W. 23d Street, where they will be pleased to see their many old friends.

NEW YORK CITY.—Brainbridge Colby, assignee, will sell at public auction, through Adrian H. Muller & Co., auctioneers, at the Real Estate Exchange, No. 111 Broadway, on the 23d inst., at 12 o'clock noon, the uncollectible accounts assigned to him under the assignment of Charles L. Webster, Samuel L. Clemens, and Frederick J. Hall.

NEW YORK CITY.—M. F. Wood & Co. have taken the store at 18 East 17th St., lately occupied by M. W. Jones, who has taken a position with Thomas Nelson & Sons, and have put in a fresh stock of new, second-hand, and rare books. Catalogues of new and second-hand books are solicited.

NEW YORK CITY.—On the night of January 2 the building 22 Park Place was almost destroyed by fire, and H. B. Hall's Sons, who occupied three floors, have removed their steel-engraving and steel-plate printing business to No. 79 Fourth Avenue.

ORANGE CITY, IA.—A. Kuyper, bookseller, has given a bill of sale for $700.

PALO ALTO, CAL.—A meeting of the creditors of W. H. Simpkins, bookseller, has been held. Mr. Simpkins lost his stock by fire recently, and will, it is expected, resume shortly.

RICHMOND, MO.—T. K. Grow, bookseller, has met with a loss by fire of $2000; insured for $1000.

ROCHESTER, IND.—A. T. Bitters & Co., booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

R. F. FENNO & CO. have just issued a new book by "The Duchess" entitled "The Professor's Experiment."

GEORGE H. RICHMOND & CO. have raised the retail price of James L. Ford's clever story "Dolly Dillenbeck" from $1 to $1.25.

GINN & CO. will publish next month in their Athenæum Press Series selections from Keats's poems, edited with introduction and notes by Prof. Arlo Bates.

I. E. BOOTH, 33 Gold Street, N. Y., has just ready "The Medical Muse, Grave and Gay, a collection of rhymes, up to date, by the doctor, for the doctor, and against the doctor," collected and arranged by John F. B. Lillard.

BRENTANO'S have just ready a map of a portion of Venezuela and British Guiana, showing the advance of British claims on Venezuelan territory revised to the present day. The map is clearly printed in colors on good bond paper and retails for 50 cents.

LAIRD & LEE, Chicago, call the attention of the trade to the fact that they are the only publishers in this country of Nordau's "Conventional Lies," "Paradoxes," and "Paris Sketches." Dealers will save time and annoyance to other publishers by bearing this in mind.

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS is printing a work entitled "Woman Under Monasticism." It is by Lina Eckenstein, and is said to be an elaborate study of convent life and saint worship, covering the period from the beginning of Latin monasticism to the years just preceding the Reformation.

OUR attention has been called to the fact that the "Minerva-Jahrbuch der Gelehrtenwelt," and the French edition of the "Almanach de Gotha," may be had through importers of foreign books generally, and that Messrs. Lemcke & Buechner are not the exclusive agents of these publications in this country, as was implied in our notice in the last week's issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

BAILY & FAIRCHILD CO., 24 Park Place, New York, announce the Doctor's Story Series, to be issued quarterly at $2 per year, 50 cents a number. Each number will consist of a complete work of fiction by medical authors. Only such works as are of established value will be reproduced in this popular form. King's "Stories of a Country Doctor" will be issued this month, and will be followed in March by Dr. Phillips's novel, "Miskel," and later by a novel now in preparation by the same author.

EDWARD ARNOLD hopes to publish Slatin Pasha's long-expected "Fire and Sword in the Soudan" on the 22d inst. The type for the book was set in this country, and sheets were shipped to England by the Cephalonia for simultaneous publication, when she came into collision last fall. They were so injured by water as to be wholly useless. The American edition was held back until the English edition could be made ready, according to the exigencies of copyright law. It will no doubt make its appearance on the date specified.

T. Y. CROWELL & CO. announce that as Charles E. L. Wingate's entertaining and dramatic work on "Shakespeare's Heroines on the Stage" has been received with such marked favor he has been encouraged to prepare a companion volume for the coming season, to be entitled "Shakespeare's Heroes on the Stage." This will treat, in the same gossipy, lively style, of the great actors who have impersonated Hamlet, Macbeth, Othello, Romeo, and other Shakespearian characters. It will be full of clever anecdotes and valuable criticisms, and will be illustrated with many rare pictures.

PRESIDENT MONROE'S famous message of 1823, containing the statement of the "Monroe Doctrine," has been published in full in the Old South Leaflets, being No. 56 of this valuable series of historical documents. The leaflet, like all the Old South Leaflets, contains careful historical notes and references to the best literature of the subject. The directors of the Old South Work, Old South Meeting-House, Washington and Milk Streets, Boston, have decided to bind their series of Leaflets in cloth volumes, binding 25 parts to a volume. Two bound volumes have just been prepared, the first containing Leaflets 1–25; the second, 26–50; and when No. 75 is reached in the rapidly growing series, they shall have a third volume. The price of the bound volumes is $1.50. Title-pages for the different volumes, with table of contents, are furnished without charge to those having the whole series of the Leaflets and wishing to bind them for themselves.

MACMILLAN & CO. will publish shortly an elaborate treatise on "European Architecture and Historical Study," by Russell Sturgis. The book is divided into nine chapters, each of which deals with an important period in the history of architecture. It starts with the period of Greek architecture which corresponds nearly with the years 600–50 B.C., and this is followed by the Roman Imperial period, which prevailed from about 50 B.C. to 350 A.D. Later chapters deal with Mediæval and post-Mediæval periods. The strange epoch of transition in the 16th century is discussed at length, and it is shown how during this epoch the revived classic style of Italy is contemporaneous with the florid Gothic of the north. The book is a close study of the monuments of architecture at first hand, and over 200 illustrations complete a work of singular interest and value. They have in preparation a second series of Mr. Charles G. Leland's interesting "Legends of Florence." The first volume in the new series of Foreign Statesmen, published by Macmillan & Co., will be "Richelieu," by Prof. Lodge, of Glasgow.

FREDERICK WARNE & CO. have now ready the first 17 parts of their important "Royal Natural History." The first 15 parts complete the portion of the work devoted to mammalia. The succeeding parts will treat of birds and fishes. The parts already issued may be had in paper, in five sectional volumes bound in cloth, or in two quarterly volumes bound either in cloth or in half morocco. The work is of the greatest value to students of natural history, having been prepared with the minutest care and with reference to the latest observations by such specialists as Profs. Lydekker, MacPherson, Bowdler, Sharpe, and other equally eminent authorities. The illustrations, especially the colored plates, are carefully and artistically printed. The plates from Brehm's work used in some of the earlier parts having proved unsatisfactory, the publishers made arrangements with specialists and had the printing done under their immediate direction. In short, nothing has been left undone to make the publication reliable and attractive for years to come. The trade should find it comparatively easy to procure subscribers for this work.

D. APPLETON & CO.'S January announcements include the following books: "The Exploits of Brigadier Gerard," by A. Conan Doyle, illustrated; "Greenland Icefields, and Life in the North Atlantic," by Prof. G. Frederick Wright, who describes his experiences during a trip to Greenland in the summer of 1894, on the steamer Miranda; "With the Fathers: studies in American history," by Prof. J. B. McMaster; "Old Faiths and New Facts," by William W. Kinsley, author of "Views on Vexed Questions"; "California of the South," entirely rewritten and revised, by Dr. Walter Lindley; the delightful "Studies of Childhood," by Prof. James Sully, which formed one of the attractions of Appleton's Popular Science Monthly last year; "Criminal Sociology," a new volume in the Criminology Series, by Prof. E. Ferri; "The Story of the Solar System," a new volume in the Library of Useful Stories, by George F. Chambers; "Chronicles of Martin Hewitt," by Arthur Morrison; "Successors to the Title," by Mrs. L. B. Walford; "The Lost Stradivarius," by J. Meade Falkner; "The Wrong Man," by Dorothea Gerard, and "The Sun," by Prof. C. A. Young, largely rewritten by the author.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "The History of the Foreign Policy of Great Britain," by Prof. Montague Burrows, of Oxford, a book that possesses a special timeliness in connection with present international issues, outlining as it does the main features of the relations of Great Britain with foreign States from the time of Henry II. down to the beginning of 1895. They have in press a work by Charles M. Andrews, of Bryn Mawr College, which will naturally be connected with certain divisions of the treatise by Prof. Burrows. The two volumes in which Prof. Andrews' work will be completed will present a study of "The Historical Development of Modern Europe from 1815 Down to 1880. A volume giving the history of the European settlements in "The West Indies and the Spanish Main," by James Rodway, Fellow of the Geographical Society, will be published by them early in the spring. It will possess special interest in connection with the attention now being directed to the northern districts of South America. They also have in press a work which will be issued under some such title as "The Nicaragua Canal: its history and its future," by Prof. Lindley M. Keasbey, which will include detailed maps and plans; "Early Long Island: a study of colonial times," by Martha Bochée Flint, of which a limited letter-press edition only will be issued; "A History of Modern Banks of Issue," by Charles A. Conant; a new edition of Dasent's "Tales of the Fjeld," with 100 illustrations by Moyr Smith; and a reissue of the standard work by Samuel Rowe, entitled "The Perambulation of the Forest of Dartmoor," which will contain 24 illustrations in photogravure, together with numerous vignettes and a sketch map.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.
